Whether you're speaking to 1 or 100, the sound of your voice makes a lasting impression on others. In today's world, where business is often conducted by phone or video conference, your voice can make or break your effectiveness as a communicator or leader.

In Marie's unique Voice Works one-on-one Coaching Sessions, you'll learn specific tips and techniques to optimize the sound of your speaking voice. Marie has worked with hundreds of speakers and business professionals over the years, and has developed a proven process for enhancing the sound you project.

As part of your package, first you'll receive a personalized analysis of your voice improvement areas. Then you'll learn effective voice production skills, demonstrated by Marie, who is trained in vocal performance and projection techniques. Based on your specific objectives, she'll provide you with a custom voice warmup routine to build new abilities with your voice and eliminate any problem areas. Specific focus areas may include: Improving your volume, inflection, tone quality, pacing and speed, articulation and accent reduction. Your personal voice coaching sessions will be designed around your availability and those areas most important to you.
